Numb. 7.

THE South-Carolina Gazette.

Containing the freſheſt Advices Foreign and Domeſtick.

From Saturday March 9, to Saturday, March 16. 1733-4.

Naples Dec. 15.

THE Government has receiv'd a Reſcript from the Court of Vienna, wherein his Imperial Majeſty is pleaſed to expreſs his entire Satisfaction in the Conduct of the States during the preſent critical Juncture, and the Zeal they have ſhewn for the Houſe of Auſtria, whereof they have given a freſh Proof, by the free Gift of 500,000 Ducats lately made to the Emperor. The Garriſon of Capua has been reinforc'd with 300 Men, and 183 Slaves are ſent to work at the Fortifications of that place, the Inhabitants whereof have moſt of them ſupply'd themſelves with Proviſions for a Twelve-month; thoſe who are not in a Condition ſo to do, will be obliged to retire elſewhere. The Duke of Gravina continues ſtill in a dangerous Condition. Three Tartanes laden with Bombs and German Recruits, are ſail'd for Gaeta.

Madrid Dec. 22. According to our laſt Letters from Oran, the Moors in Alliance with the Algerines make frequent Viſits into the Neighbourhood of that Garriſon. They inflict the greateſt Cruelties upon ſuch of their Countrymen as have ſubmitted to his Catholick Majeſty's Protection, whom we diſtinguiſh here by the Name of Pacifick Moors. The Infidels before Ceuta keep very quiet at their Camp about three Leagues from the Town; they are about 13000 in Number, under the Command of Baſhaw Ali, but ſeem rather encamp'd for Form's ſake than Service. The Civil Wars, which are a new broke out in the Kingdom of Morocco, diverting the Attention of King Muley Abdallah another Way, aud do not ſuffer him to carry into Execution the grand Deſigns that Ripperda had contriv'd. That Nobleman continues in the higheſt Favour at the Court of Morocco, and has gain'd ſome Ground in the Project his Vanity ſuggeſted to him, of inſinuating a new Religion to the Moors, compos'd of both the Mahometan and Chriſtian Schemes.

Leyſick, Dec. 24. When the Saxon troops firſt enter'd Poland, two Companies of each Regiment had Orders to ſtay in the Electorate; but the latter have receiv'd ſudden Orders to march and join their Regiments; and this Day began their March accordingly. A Report goes that ſome Hanoverian Troops will be ſolicited, the better to ſecure the Frontiers from the threatned Incurſions of the Poles. They write from Dreſden, that the Queen, their Sovereign, will not ſtay above two Months in Poland, and return with the Prince Xaviere to that City.

Dantzick, Dec. 26. Since the Arrival of the Ruſſians on the Frontiers of Poliſh Pruſſia, we hear no more of their March to advance hither: We ſuppoſe they halt, to wait the Saxons which are to join them: Meanwhile we work hard in fortifying the Heighths about this City, the Poſts whereof are all well garriſon'd, and provided with Ammunition and other Neceſſaries in Abundance, in order to diſpute the Paſſage with the Ruſſians, before they can poſſibly attempt the Siege of the City. The King Staniſlaus enjoys perfect Health. The Religious belonging to the Convent of Oliva have ſent his Majeſty the Preſent they are uſed to make the Kings of Poland after their Election.

Ratisbon, Dec. 31. Nothing paſſes in the Dyet on account of the Holidays, but we are well aſſur'd the Emperors Decree for declaring War with France will come on the Carpet in the firſt Aſſembly of the Miniſters of the Empire, who have already received proper Inſtructions from their reſpective Courts on that Head; we are perſuaded the plurality will conform to the Intentions of his Imperial Majesty. Baron de Francken the Elector Palatine's Minister, return'd the 25th from Munich. He has Orders to vote in the Electoral College, in the Name of their Highnesses of Cologne and Bavaria, till the Arrival of their respective Ministers.

Berlin Jan. 1. The Convention for the March of the 10,000 Men, which the King is to supply the Emperor with, was sign'd the 30th past by Count Seckendorf, on the Part of the Emperor and the Ministers of his Prussian Majesty.

Hamburg, Jan. 1. The last Letters from Mecklemboug advise, that Duke Charles Leopold had made all proper Dispositions to summon his Subjects afrew to Arms, and order them to rendezvous in the appointed places; but upon the Representations made him by the chief Officers of the Prussian and Hanoverian Troops on that Head, his Serene Highness dropt the Design. These Letters add, that the Body of Prussians under the Command of General Shwerin have been lately reinforc'd with a Foot Regiment of 1500 Men, which was quarter'd in the Neighbourhood of Parchim, and that the said General has detach'd a Regiment of Cavalry into Pomerania. We have had much Discourse here of late about a Plan of Accommodation between France and the Emperor but while one Power pushes the Point in Italy, the other in Poland, we know not wherein to ground our Hopes of pacifick Overtures taking place between them. The Letters from Astracan will have the last Defeat of the Turkish Army to be the greatest that has happen'd for this hundred Years last past, and that the Turks lost above 50,000 Men on the Spot, besides 30,000 taken Prisoners: Moreover, that the Persian General hath bound himself by Oath never to make Peace till the entire Restitution of all the Persian conquer'd Provinces.

Hague, Jan. 1. People here pass very different Judgments upon the King of Spain's Manifesto. In general it is reckon'd somewhat too imperious, and that the little care that has been taken in the Wording of it, betrays a Heat and Passion, which may be dispensed with sometimes in private persons, but not in great Monarchs. We can say nothing in relation to the Truth of the Facts of which the Court of Spain seems to take his Britannick Majesty for a Witness, to whom that Manifesto is particularly directed; for the Translation which the Spanish Minister has published here, is intitled, A Memorial for the Catholick King's Embassador at the Court of Great Britain; explaining the Reasons which have obliged his Catholick Majesty to declare War against the Emperor. There are, however, some Facts alledg'd in this Manifesto, which are call'd in Question. The Court of France have been explicit enough with regard to the Answer which the Court of Vienna made to their Motives, by saying the King would make no Reply to such Performances of the Imperialists, but by Word of Cannon; that he would not enter into a Paper-War, but explain himself to his Enemies by the Mouths of his Artillery, &c.

Paris, Jan. 1. On the 29th past the King held a grand Council at Versailles, wherein 'tis said it was resolv'd to make a speedy Promotion of eight Marshals of France, viz. the Dukes of Charost, Villeroy, and Noailles, the Count de Broglio, the Marquesses de Coigny and Asfield, the Prince of Tingry, and the Count de Silly. The Knights of the Order of the Holy Ghost have tender'd the King a free Gift of a Million towards the Expences of a War, and his Majesty has lately ordain'd, that henceforward the 2d of January be kept as an annual Day of Devotion, to pray for the Souls of the Knights deceased of that Order. The Mariners which stand in the List, have Orders not to stir from their Stations, but keep in constant readiness for Service. Mr. Moncrif, Secretary of the Count de Clermont, and M. du Pre, Master of Accounts, were admitted on Tuesday last into the French Academy.

LONDON Jan. 3.

We are inform'd that the Marquis de Chavigny, the French Embassador, receiv'd Yesterday an Express from Paris, with an Account that the Marquis de Villars arriv'd the 5th Instant, N. S. at the French Court from Milan, to acquaint the most Christian King that the Citadel of Milan was reduc'd by his Majesty's Arms, in Conjunction with those of his Allies, the Governor having capitulated to surrender the Place, and the Marshal de Villars consenting to allow the Garrison Leave to depart with the usual Honours of War.
